Police Family Survivors Fund

2020 Highlights

The Police Family Survivors Fund, a program of the American Federation of Police & Concerned Citizens, offers assistance to the families of law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty. The organization monitors line of duty deaths across the nation and corresponds with over 22,000 law enforcement agencies. Records of each officer killed, how they died, the date and location of death are kept and made available. Family survivors are appreciative of our programs of compassion specially designed for them. The programs continue to expand as funds become available.

Mission and Purpose

The mission of the organization is to promote and support the law enforcement profession.

The American Federation of Police & Concerned Citizens is dedicated to the following goals:

- Recognize the noteworthy contributions and posthumously memorialize the lives of law enforcement professionals;
- Provide meaningful programs of compassion for fallen law enforcement officers' surviving families;
- Enrich the public's awareness, understanding and appreciation for contributions made by law enforcement;
- Support the American Police Hall of Fame and Museum in a manner that produces a meaningful visitor experience and aspires to the highest standards.

A Message From Our President

Brian Smith
President AFP&CC

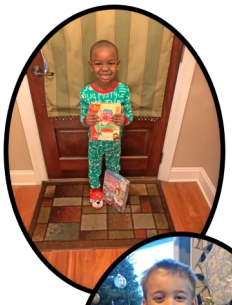

Welcome to the AFP&CC. For more than 40 years we have provided programs and services to help families of police officers who have died in the line of duty. Our programs are made possible only through the generosity of thousands of wonderful donors across the country. Today more than 13,200 grieving spouses, children and other family members can access our family support services including emergency financial assistance to help a surviving family pay rent, buy groceries or meet other expenses during the difficult days following the loss of their officer, grants for grief counseling, educational scholarships, birthday and holiday gifts, and more. With statistics showing that an officer is lost an average of every 58 hours in our country, the need to help the families left behind is always growing. We hope you will find it in your heart to support our programs by making a gift today. Thank you for whatever you can do.

Brian Smith
President

Receiving this scholarship means the absolute world to me and I can't begin to say how thankful I am for you all supporting my family each of these last few years.
Sincerely,
James H.

Birthday and Holiday Gifts

Holidays are usually very hard on survivors, especially the children. That is why AFP&CC provides birthday and holiday gifts to family survivor children each and every year until they turn 17, with many children having received gifts for more than 10 years. Our desire is to make them all feel very special and to know that we also remember their mom or dad.

Currently over 900 children residing in almost every state and territory in the United States are enrolled in the gift program .

Anniversary Remembrance Gifts

Each year, on the one year anniversary of the officer's death, to honor the fallen hero and to acknowledge the personal effect the loss has on fellow officers, AFP&CC sends a gift of remembrance to the officer's family.

College Scholarships

Each year, AFP&CC awards hundreds of scholarships to surviving sons and daughters of police officers killed in the line of duty. This nationwide program provides assistance to high school graduates attending a traditional four-year college, university, technical or vocational institution.

As of December 31, 2020, more than $3,200,000 had been awarded in college scholarships.

Emergency Assistance

Nearly every day, AFP&CC receives a phone call, sees a news report or opens a personal letter and learns of another fallen hero who has sacrificed his or her life in the line of duty somewhere in the United States. As heart wrenching as this news is for our organization, it is even more devastating to the fallen officer's family and loved ones. AFP&CC helps survivor families cope with their pain by sending money for emergency assistance as soon as word is received about the officer's death.

Grief Counseling

The sorrow can be unmanageable and the grief overpowering for spouses, children, siblings and parents. AFP&CC helps survivor families cope with their pain by providing funds for those family members in need of grief counseling.

Mothers' and Fathers' Day Gifts

The parents of fallen officers experience unimaginable sadness when they are forced to say goodbye to their son or daughter too soon. This sorrow can never be forgotten or overcome, which is why AFP&CC remembers the surviving parents each year on Mothers' Day and Fathers' Day by sending a card and small memento to be held as a keepsake. This gesture reminds parents that they are not alone in their grief and recognizes their loss, bringing comfort on what is often a difficult day.

Financial Information

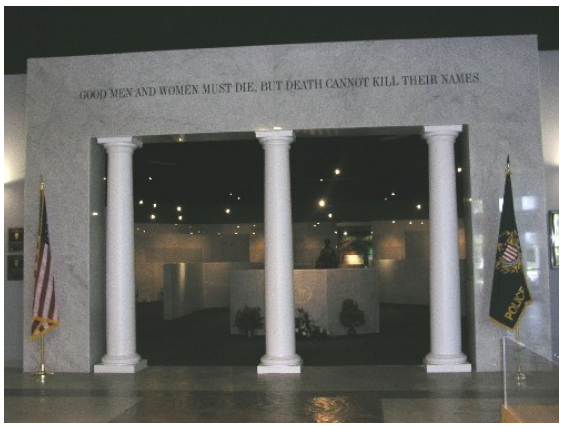

The American Federation of Police and Concerned Citizens, Inc. is a District of Columbia not-for-profit corporation incorporated in November 1978. The Organization's revenues consist principally of contributions from the general public and dues and other income obtained from its membership.

The Organization has been granted tax-exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service under code Section 501(c)(3). The Organization does pay tax on any unrelated business income. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 2019, there was no tax liability on unrelated business income. The organization is registered in every state where it conducts fund raising activities as required by the state.

All contributions are considered to be available for unrestricted use unless specifically restricted by the donor. For the year ending June 30, 2020, all funds were unrestricted. The financial records of the Organization are audited annually by Robbins and Moroney, P.A., Certified Public Accountants. Copies of audited financial statements are available on our website, http://www.afp-cc.org/aboutus.html.

American Police Hall of Fame & Museum

The American Police Hall of Fame and Museum is the headquarters of the American Federation of Police and Concerned Citizens. This 50,000 square foot facility stands as a testament to all of the brave men and women in law enforcement across the country. A testament that includes items showcasing the classic call to serve and protect and even the harsh reality of sacrifice in the line of duty.

Entrance to the Police Memorial

The Museum contains thousands of police artifacts, exhibits, interactive displays, hands-on activities, training facilities, and an interdenominational chapel. The Chapel serves as a place of healing for the thousands of survivor children and families that visit each year. Also inside the facility is a beautiful memorial honoring fallen officer's slain in the line of duty whereby each officer's name has been engraved into imported Italian marble walls.

Summer Camp

Small joys like friends, fun and favorite activities can bring light back into the lives of these children who have endured so much pain. The AFP&CC Summer Camp Program offers these sons and daughters financial assistance to be used for summer camp tuition at the camp of their choice.

Law Enforcement Memorial Weekend

The American Police Hall of Fame and Museum along with the American Federation of Police & Concerned Citizens holds a Memorial Service each year during Police Week to honor law enforcement's fallen heroes. We extend an invitation to all Police Family Survivors to join us as we remember our heroes that we miss so much. The Memorial Service is held on the grounds of the American Police Hall of Fame and Museum which provides a time to reflect on all of our law enforcement officers lost over the years. There is a final roll call of the officers lost in the previous year, as well as a roll call of those officers lost in previous years that have family in attendance. Our hope is that guests will receive a blessing and encouragement while visiting during this special time. We want to pay tribute to how these officers lived, and to remember that they died in service to their fellow citizens.

The Memorial Wall

Monetary donations are necessary to support these vital programs of compassion. Honor our Heroes with a tax-deductible donation.
